I agree; I felt like I might be giving them too much rope on this, but I didn't want to push them too hard, then have their contractor (K-vac) set the Baker tank on fire and/or discharge it to the storm drain. Better they plan carefully.

Thank you, Brett,
I will be in San Francisco next week, so it will likely be overseen by our START contractor, Weston.

Hi Ben,

Subject to final confirmation on Monday from Clean Harbors, we plan on removing and liquid waste, and degassing/cleaning and removing the frac tank late next week (Thursday or Friday). I will send out an email to all of the agencies after I hear back from Clean Harbors on Monday.

Have a great weekend.
